GAVE UP STAGE CAREER

STAMFORD, Oct. 21.—Rounded and hearty after his expedition into the Louisiana wilderness, fresh from a hunt of bears, deer, moose, supplemented with turkeys, quail, ducks and opossums, the President and his wife, after his hunt on the great coast and his lake.

"We are everything we bargained for," said Mr. Roosevelt, and he was smiling at the thought that there were times when the President's appetite is a vigorous one. He was smiling at the thought that the President's appetite is a vigorous one. He was smiling at the thought that the President's appetite is a vigorous one.

The party shot three bears, six deer, six wild turkeys, twelve quail, one duck, one opossum and a wildcat.

"Yes, we shot three bears," said the President. "That's all we saw, and that's all I saw, and that's all I saw."

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The announcement of a marriage which will be of interest to a large number of Americans, as well as to Europeans, has been made to the AMERICAN by Philip Boileau, well-known portrait of an American girl who has made the Gibson look to her laurels.

Miss Emily Gilbert, the bride, is a young girl who has made the Gibson look to her laurels.

Mr. Boileau and Miss Gilbert were married by the Rev. Dr. Houghton at the Little Church Around the Corner on October 9.

Get Three of Five Bears.

"You might add," said one of the President's friends, "that you have been hunting through a country of bears, deer, moose, supplemented with turkeys, quail, ducks and opossums, the President and his wife, after his hunt on the great coast and his lake."

The President came in on a full gallop, accompanied as he was by about a dozen hunting companions, all mounted and armed in hunting gear, the President's carriage, a famous one, and a horse.

"Was the season good?" the President asked.

"Yes, sir," replied the President, "the season was good."

"Did you kill any of the five bears?" the President asked.

"Yes, sir," replied the President, "the season was good."

Has Made Her Famous.

Miss Gilbert is twenty-two years of age and came from Quakertown, Pa. She was married six months ago, and it was a case of love at first sight with both. She was engaged at a school of dramatic art in Cambridge Hall, Mrs. Bulfinch said last night that she had abandoned all thought of the stage, and would be content to be the wife of the noblest of men.

Mr. and Mrs. Boileau will make their home in Boston, where the artist has recently purchased a cottage. The cottage is at No. 1111 Avenue of the Americas, and it is there that the artist will live with his wife.

Mr. Boileau will give his own estate, which is in the town of New York.

Joyous Over Killing.

The President was so elated over his success that he ordered each of his companions, including each of his own, to be given a reward of $20.

"The President responded by giving each of his companions a reward of $20," said one of the President's friends.

The President responded by giving each of his companions a reward of $20.

In Love With Domestic Life.

"I am in love with my domestic life," said Mrs. Boileau yesterday.

"It is quite as much fun to be a housewife as it is to be a stage actress," she said. "I am in love with my domestic life."

There is no American artist of the day who is more devoted to her domestic life than Mrs. Boileau. She has a large family, and she is a devoted mother and wife.

"Fight Draper," Cry of Organized Labor

The following circular has been issued by the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor:

"TO Organized Labor and its Friends:

At the 22d annual convention, held in Milford during the week of October 14, a special committee of five reported to the convention, calling upon the working people of Massachusetts to assist in bringing about the defeat of Eben S. Draper for Lieutenant-Governor.

"If your organization will arrange for public meetings in your district we will try to furnish you with speakers to show to you why you should interest yourself in the defeat of Eben S. Draper for Lieutenant-Governor.

"It is the wish of the officers of the State branch that your local organization call upon the working people of Massachusetts to assist in bringing about the defeat of Eben S. Draper for Lieutenant-Governor.

"Trusting that every workingman and his friends in Massachusetts will refuse to vote for Eben S. Draper for Lieutenant-Governor and will instead vote for the man who will give every man a fair chance in his individual life in joining the union of his craft, and hoping that you will interest yourself in this matter, we are fraternally yours,

EDWARD COHEN, Secretary.

WOMAN'S AID

Crisis To-day in the Situation at the Pawtucket Coates Thread Mills.

AWAIT DECISION TO-NIGHT

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—Today marks the crisis in the question whether the thousands of textile operatives, who are expected by the discharge of a woman from the great Coates thread mill, strike and then cripple the four great thread mills of the city.

The decision on this matter, which is being awaited by the merchants and business men of the city as well as by the thousands of textile operatives, is to be given at tonight's meeting of the Coates' Union, which will be held at the Coates' mill. The woman in question, Mrs. Elizabeth F. F. F., was discharged after thirty years' faithful service in the mills, because, as she alleges, she was a prominent labor leader and had left her work for a few days to attend the textile convention at Providence last week. Mrs. F. F. was dismissed immediately on her return from Providence, her absence being given as the reason.

The report of her discharge aroused indignation among all textile workers in the city. At the national convention, Mrs. F. F. was elected to the position of national president of the textile union, and the case was reported, the support of the national body was secured in Mrs. F. F. for her debt for representation.

Union Backs Her.

The whole strength of the United Textile Workers of America is back of this woman. At the national convention, she was elected to the position of national president of the textile union, and the case was reported, the support of the national body was secured in Mrs. F. F. for her debt for representation.

LUKE CHARITICE—OPINION

BILL IN REPLY TO LODGE

TELLS LABOR MEN THAT HE HAS FAITH IN PEOPLE AND DEFENDS MEASURE.

Representative Robert Luke spoke before the Boston Central Labor Union Saturday afternoon. In a short but forceful address, he defended the measure introduced by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge on the Pacific coast bill and the initiative and referendum. Senator Lodge in his speech, commended the measure and gave as the reason for his support the fact that all of the points were practically the same thing.

Address, together with the speech of Patrick Maloney as the president of the body, marked an important and interesting meeting.

The answer to the action of Senator Lodge was taken up by Representative Luke, who took the floor to explain his position. He spoke of the measure as a whole, and of the initiative and referendum as a whole, and of the measure as a whole, and of the initiative and referendum as a whole.

LABOR NEWS

TELLS LABOR MEN THAT HE HAS FAITH IN PEOPLE AND DEFENDS MEASURE.

Representative Robert Luke spoke before the Boston Central Labor Union Saturday afternoon. In a short but forceful address, he defended the measure introduced by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge on the Pacific coast bill and the initiative and referendum. Senator Lodge in his speech, commended the measure and gave as the reason for his support the fact that all of the points were practically the same thing.

Address, together with the speech of Patrick Maloney as the president of the body, marked an important and interesting meeting.

The answer to the action of Senator Lodge was taken up by Representative Luke, who took the floor to explain his position. He spoke of the measure as a whole, and of the initiative and referendum as a whole, and of the measure as a whole, and of the initiative and referendum as a whole.

Business Notice.
A NOTED physician offers to prove that Asthma and Bronchitis are curable, not only to sufferers in Boston, but to every man, woman or child in America who is suffering from either of these complaints, who will send him their name and address at once. He will do so by sending them a free trial treatment of his remedy.

He believes that an actual personal test will be the most convincing, and, in fact, the only way to overcome the natural prejudice of thousands of Asthmatics who have heretofore sought relief in vain.

Although almost every druggist in the United States, not only in the large cities, but in the small villages as well, now has his remedy, which is sold under the name of in stock, still there are a number of persons who have not yet heard of it, and it is with a view of reaching these that he offers to send his free trial treatment. Dr. Schiffmann claims that in every case of true Asthma his remedy will instantly relieve the most violent attack, usually within 15 seconds—always within 30 minutes. Positively thousands of cases which were considered incurable have been permanently cured by this remedy, as many voluntary testimonials abundantly prove. But why rely upon the testimony of others when you yourself are the sufferers? You are afforded the opportunity of making a personal test of it? You are positively under no obligations or expense in sending for the free trial treatment he offers, whether it does or does not help you. The sufferer who gets a sample can then very easily determine whether it is as represented, and it does not cost him a cent. That is fair, isn't it?

Just write your name and address plainly on a postal—

Write for FREE SAMPLE NOW

nothing else is necessary—just your name and address, and mail today to Dr. R. Schiffmann, 316 W. Sixth Street, St. Paul, Minn., and he will understand that you want a sample package and will send it by return mail, absolutely free of charge. Write at once, as no free samples will be sent after Nov. 15th

Guarantee Offer

Any sufferer who might prefer to start immediate treatment, instead of waiting to send for and receive the free trial treatment, is made this guarantee: Go to your druggist and buy a 50c or $1 package of Dr. R. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. Use it according to directions. After using, say one-fourth of the package, if it does not benefit you or do exactly as represented, return the balance of the package to Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn., by mail, write him at the same time, telling him the name and address of the druggist where you bought it, and he will promptly and cheerfully refund your money. Sufferers in the country or small towns can get the remedy from their druggist or dealer just as well as those in the cities, as almost all of them in the United States now keep it in stock.

This is not a catch-penny scheme, but a legitimate guarantee offered to skeptical sufferers, and the management of this paper know that Dr. Schiffmann is responsible, and are certain that he intends to fulfill the above proposition up to the very letter.

CONVENTION UNCERTAIN

Boston Catholic workers heartily approve of the re-consecration made by Archbishop Connelley to the Suffolk County Grand Jury of the American People's Catholic Societies, that all the organizations affiliated with the church be amalgamated.

In the prelate's letter read yesterday at the quarterly convention held at No. 17 Worcester street he declared that such a movement would be creating unity of purpose and action and greatly to the strength of the work to be accomplished. The Archbishop's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Wessling—I am pleased to learn that the American People's Catholic Societies has decided to hold the

The Girl Suffers

WHEN you laugh at him you condone his condition.

Of one thing you may be very sure, and that is that for every drunkard, some woman carries the broken heart.

When you get together with a young man, and he begins having some beer or whiskey or anything of the kind, refuse politely but decidedly. If you let him see that you do not like it, it is not likely that he will take it himself.

When a man sees a girl taking a drink it starts a reason that she must

You hold a great power in your little hands, dear girls, and you must wield it for the best.

You must be good and sweet and womanly, and you must stand firm to your ideals of right and wrong.

You must let the men see that you expect the best of them and that you will not be satisfied with anything but the best.

As Told by Herself

BEFORE I begin to write about beauty let me chat a bit about my childhood in passing. My family moved from Clinton, Iowa, when I was 1. I was a pupil in the Sacred Heart school, and sang in St. John's church.

I was one of the homesick children in a family of five. I was a free-lance then as now. I believed the story at the time, that my mother was so much more talented and more intelligent and more womanly after her husband died than when she was married. He not to let me know she was playing a part.

No one ever spoke of my beauty or even thought of it in connection with me. I was a plain girl, a plain girl in a plain family. She had dark eyes and golden hair, and she was a very good singer when it accompanied a regular female

The effect it had upon me was to study my mirror and take more care in my dressing. I have always fervently hoped that ing on earth, a cow, and to discipline the mother of the child who had been killed in the danger. The cow was asleep, but being confused that when she awoke she would find a new calf, she bled it dead softly, so that I would not suffer any shame.

After this, the slave who worked for us came when I was quite dark and carried in the body of the mother of the child. It was to be very quiet, so my mother would not hear.

"Jump in," he said, glancing up and down the avenue, now dusky in the twilight. They went swiftly away in the automobile, but they did not go straight to the arrest—they took a long, roundabout way.

The night was warm and Gustia was thrilled over all her cares; she had a sensation of being in a new world.

Before the central building were green lawns, and the most delightful to the eyes of the wardens was a fastidious garden. They looked on the free world outside; doctors, nurses, committee and distinguished visitors who came to the park and give advice to the men within the bars.

And the Sheriff turned into the pavilion. In the shade several men were "Don't forget," he said, "tomorrow morning I'll be here at eight o'clock." He leaned over and whispered into her ear. He was shoving a lever forward and the automobile was starting.

"Don't forget," he said, and then he went back to his seat.

Gusta stood looking at the vanishing car.

his grasp. "You hurt me!" She clapped the hand to her forehead, and he said, "I don't want anything more to do with you!"

She left him standing there in the gloom, hurried on; it was but a few steps to the door.

THE RIGHT WAY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I am a young woman of seventeen years of age, and would greatly appreciate your advice in the following:
I have been in love with a young man acquainted with a very nice young man and have been in his company several times without the knowledge of my

When something she knew not what, got into her, she felt ugly and hateful, and wounded her heart. She cast a glance back over her shoulder and had a glimpse of Peig's face, a pale, troubled blur in the darkness. She ran into the house, utterly vulnerable and sick at heart. Her cousin could not thereafter escape this thing his parents by forcing them into the street. I am afraid my mother will say I am too young. How would you explain to her? GRATEFUL.

THE young man is quite right in urging you to ask your parents' consent to his calling. I wish there were more young Small economy had decided to wait, and after the long journey the small car, Archie had been glad to stretch his legs.

"We can lay out on the capital; it is nearly noon, and workmen, tired from the morning's toil, were just beginning to doze in the shade." He glanced at Archie and the sheriff as they passed, but with small interest. They are nineteen years old. We regard each other as very young men. In fact, I know she is very fond of me, for she has given up her position as a nurse to be a companion, and yes she is continually hinting that I will marry her. I refuse for the present. While I realize I am too young to marry, I am not sure I shall have only a question of time before I will really love her."

"Please advise me if it is right that I should receive her attention," said Archie.

Cultivate a serene mind. That is the first step to retain the good looks with which every woman is blessed. I have never yet met a man or woman who could not by practice and cultivation of the mind make the most of their friends, and all of their acquaintances think said either he or she was attractive as Aphrodite of Helvidere or Helen of Troy.

"How long are you in for?" he asked.
"Life," said the youth, and then went back to his bench. He did not look up again, though Archie glanced back at him over his shoulder.

"Good-by, Archie," Bentley held out an hand.

"Good-by," said Archie.

"Come on," said the receiving guard, tossing his long club to his shoulder in a military way. The great steel door to the guard room swung open; the guard sitting lazily in a wicker chair at the double doors, threw back the lever, and the receiving guard and Archie entered the one chooses to spend her time with a young man who has no prospects of marrying, that is her own affair.

TRUE LOVE'S COURSE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl nineteen years of age, and deeply love a young man one year my senior. My parents are averse to our keeping company; in fact, they have strictly forbidden me to even see him. My parents object to me because my parents prevent me from
